Generous Help for Community Hall Makes Load Lighter

Operation Costs Reduced Substantially by the Help of Coal Companies.

The ratemakers meeting on Tuesday Nov. 22, in the Community hall voted in favor of the town council and school board in settling the accrued taxes on the hall and were also in favor of it being assessed a nominal amount yearly. International and McGillivray Companies have volunteered to furnish light, water and fuel at one-third of cost price; the companies bearing the other two-thirds. This is a generous offer and will enable the hall to be operated at very much lower expense than if full prices were charged.

There is $1000 remaining of current liabilities which will have to be met from rentals, therefore the rates will likely remain as at present till these debts are paid.

GOOD WORK, BOYS!

The hockey boys put over their game in great style. With a boosting committee and good ticket sellers, success is achieved in affairs of this nature. It is the personal work combined with good bold display posters turned out by The Journal which is the real factor in compelling public attention. When you have a committee with punch and pep, you can't help making affairs of this nature successful.

Two Accidents at Prop Camp--One Proves Fatal

Martin Nosalk Fell From Wagon Gear and Died a Few Hours Later.

Returning from town to Sam Salford's prop camp, in York Creek district on Saturday night at 8 o'clock, driving a team hauling a wagon gear and some camp supplies, Martin Nosalk, aged 42, fell from said and died at 2 a.m. Sunday in Coleman hospital.

The first intimation of the accident was discovered by men in the camp seeing the team come in without a driver. Search being immediately made, Nosalk was found on the trail a mile from camp this side of the creek. His ribs were crushed and one lung was reported to have been pierced.

Weekly whilst drive this evening (Thursday) in the Catholic hall, everyone cordially invited.

Among "Coming Events" are shopping days which create keen interest during December. Attention is directed to the display of those enterprising merchants who solicit your business through the columns of the Coleman Journal. They offer splendid values, and guarantee you satisfaction.

DRAW YOUR OWN CONCLUSIONS

A certain truck driver, involved in a recent accident, had been at the wheel for 18 consecutive hours with only sufficient resting time for meals.

During those 18 hours he had been required to travel at speeds up to 50 miles an hour.

In spite of a leak in the air-brake system, he had been prohibited from stopping for even temporary repairs by a foreman who was accompanying him and who had been instructed that the truck must arrive in Philadelphia by a certain hour.

The driver admitted that he had not slept in a bed for more than two weeks. His sleeping accommodations were provided by a sleeper car on the truck.

At the time the accident occurred the foreman was taking out for some much-needed rest in a nearby hotel, while the driver was required to obtain oil and gas and then drive to a certain location to receive a return load.

The driver had been operating a truck as long-distance driver for only three weeks. Previously he had been employed as a farm hand.

The driver was receiving the pitiful sum of $2.00 a day for his work as a truck driver.—R. F. & P. Bulletin.

People like to know what certain articles will cost. The Journal furnishes suitable illustrations for various lines of merchandise. Put imagination into your sales talk, and back it up by using advertising space.

COMING EVENTS

The body was brought home on Monday night's train and placed in Crow's Nest undertaking parlour to wait the funeral. Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Shaw of Calgary; Linda and Eileen of Coleman, and three sons.

A short private service will be held this afternoon (Thursday) at three o'clock, followed by the committal service at the Protestant cemetery conducted by Rev. Roy C. Taylor of St. Paul's United church.

BIG CROWD AT HOCKEY DANCE

The hockey club was accorded splendid support at their dance on Friday last in the community hall. The capacity of the hall was taxed and in addition to those who attended, many purchased tickets to show their goodwill to the team. The Arcadians orchestra gave a splendid program of music and the Yodeling Ranger (Jimmy Sanders) sang two or three songs and Joe Spievak acted the good Samaritan and took up a collection for the benefit of the singer. It was a very enjoyable evening, and verily, everyone had a good time, to use the hackneyed phrase of time immemorial. Incidentally, the hockey club were able to show a surplus from the dance.

STRONG PULLING POWER OF JOURNAL ADVERTISEMENTS

Far above the town crier, posters or other forms of advertising, the weekly newspaper develops the most intimate touch with buyers of merchandise. People subscribe for newspapers because they want them, and because news and advertising is more conveniently read in regular printed form. The Journal advertisements attract attention. Typographic appearances with suitable illustrations are strong points in advertising value and the ad. which has the most pulling or attention compelling power is the ad. which will bring best results. That is why ambitious merchants of Coleman always say that a weekly message is broadcast through the Coleman Journal—the paper that is taken home and read by the whole family. The only people who do not read it are those who cannot read.

Bellevue Curlers Elect Wostenholme as President for 1933-34

ELEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING INDICATES ENTHUSIASM FOR GOOD SEASON
On Nov. 21 before a fair attendance of Sport.

On Nov. 21 before a fair attendance of members in the Arena, the eleventh annual meeting was held, with C. R. Ritchie, 1933 president, in the chair. Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Hon. president, G. A. Vissas; hon. vice-presidents, J. Smith, Lundbeck; F. Sick, Leithbridge; N. McDonald, Bellevue; president, F. Wostenholme; vice-president, W. Johnson; secretary-treasurer, J. Curry; executive, W. Kerr, J. Collins, E. C. Cranston and C. A. Ritchie.

Discussion followed on various subjects, including the financial statement, which showed a small balance to start the season. Fees were fixed the same as last year: $6 for gentlemen and $4 for ladies. It was decided to again affiliate with the Crows Nest branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, and to support the annual hospice to be held at Blairmore this year, by contributing the third and fourth prizes in the Leithbridge Breweries Cup competition.

Skips elected were the same as last year, and they are asked to get their fees in as early as possible.

The Bellevue club is holder of the Burns Cup, which was won from Coleman last year, and some keen games are anticipated from neighboring clubs, who will be welcomed at any time they care to challenge.

The club secretary reports they have no ice yet, but have expectation of it at an early date. Fred Wostenholme is at present going around on crutches, but intends to curl even if he has to hire a sweater.

Now that colour check books are reduced in price, it would be a good time to order from The Journal. Orders as low as 125 printed to your order. See advertisement in this issue.

Will Inflation Benefit?

One of the many results flowing out of the Great War was the development of a narrow nationalism which found expression in many ways and has had a profound effect upon not only national policies but in forms and methods of government. Out of the Great War grew an economic warfare more intense than in the years that preceded that titanic struggle. That economic war led to the use of tariffs, quotas, and other trade restrictions on a scale hitherto unknown. All nations engaged in it, some reluctantly, but because they were forced into it by the actions of other nations.

As this economic warfare progressed it inevitably led to still another war,—a war of exchange. The value of the currency of one nation rose or fell in relation to the value of the currencies of other nations, and as it rose or fell it directly affected the trade of the nations as well as the whole financial structure of all, and the ability of one group of people to meet its obligations to another group.

From this it was but a short step to a third form of warfare now being waged,—a war of currencies. Some nations,—most of them,—abandoned the gold standard, but a few still adhere to it. Then began the struggle of the currencies. Abandoning the gold standard was a measure of inflation. The next step was the more or less gradual reduction of the value of national currencies in terms of gold, the object being to raise prices which had fallen to a disastrously low ebb. In other words, policies of inflation were embarked upon.

But always in war, no matter the nature of the struggle, one party or country always endeavors to outdo the other. It is so in physical warfare; it is true in any tariff war. It is equally true in a war of inflation. When one country embarks upon a policy of inflation, even though it be primarily as a matter of domestic concern alone, it immediately has repercussions in other countries. So when one country proceeds with a policy of inflation, and persists in it, sooner or later other countries will follow suit, and, in following suit, will, of course, seek to go other countries "one better."

Whatever may be said in favor of a degree of inflation on the one hand, or deflation on the other, to meet changing economic conditions,—and a country engaging in either the one policy or the other always proceeds on the assumption that great care will be exercised, and the policy fully controlled to prevent it getting out of hand,—the net result invariably is that it does get out of control, and the final stage of affairs is made worse rather than improved, and the process of financial recovery made more difficult and of longer duration, with losses made heavier.

A policy of inflation is being applied in the United States at the present time. As always, President Roosevelt is anxious to keep it within bounds, but there are great and powerful influences at work to carry it far beyond what the President desires and has in mind. Can the situation be controlled? When Congress re-assembles, applications are not lacking that great pressure will be applied to put the printing presses to work turning out billions of paper money, in addition to the present inflationary policy of decreasing the gold value of the dollar. And Congress is still supreme in the United States. It conferred very extensive emergency powers upon the President, giving him almost dictatorial powers. But it can withdraw those powers or it can give much further extension to them if advisers deem it wise to do so.

And Canada cannot be indifferent to or pass immune from the effects of United States policy, whatever it may be. Our trade and other relationships are too closely interwoven, and our financial undertakings, both public and private, so entwined that Canada will be directly affected. Whether we like it or not, Canadian policy must, of necessity, be governed to some extent, possibly a large extent, by United States policy on this matter.

Inflation and deflation, and their consequences, may be traced throughout the course of history, dating back to the time the B.C., and the lessons of history teach us that inflation appears to have generally, if indeed, not always, ended in disaster. There was at first always the intention of control, but the movement usually ended by breaking all bounds. Increased purchasing power through inflation is only temporary; higher prices stimulate over-production and check consumption; new debts appear, and a return to stability is increasingly difficult.

The depression beginning in 1929 was preceded by wild speculation, encouraged and made possible by an expansion of credit, but encouraged and stimulated by installment selling on a scale never before witnessed. Many were the warnings issued at the time this wholesale expansion of credit, and unprecedented installment buying, was in progress. It could be seen by anyone willing to pause and consider that such installment buying,—all based on credit—could not go on indefinitely; that a point must be reached when and where millions of individuals committed to installment payments would reach the end of their purchasing power, having used up all their credit and pledged all their resources. The saturation point was reached late in 1929, and the crash followed.

People had bought land, houses, motor cars, radios, equipment of all kinds, and many luxuries all on the promise to pay, weekly, monthly, yearly installments. The time came when they could make no more commitments, so production stopped, and with its stoppage, millions were thrown out of employment and were thus placed in a position where they could not meet their deferred installment payments. Prices fell, and everybody sustained losses.

Inflation might temporarily raise prices, just as speculation and installment buying—which, after all, was inflation pure and simple—did raise prices. But one form of inflation can not overcome the evils caused by another form of inflation.

Cause Of Weather Changes

Scientists Find Evidence That Electricity Responsible For Variations

Evidence that electricity controls weather all over the world was announced to the National Academy of Sciences at Cambridge, Mass. The electric control runs in a definite cycle, causing rains, droughts and heat every 23 years, with comparatively minor variations for individual localities. This electric cycle comes from the sun.

"The weather of 1956," said this report, will have the same general pattern—differing, of course, in day by day details as the weather the world has experienced in 1933.

"Next summer would have the same general weather pattern as the world experienced during the summer of 1931. The discovery marks a long step forward toward the day of long-range forecasting."

Glass which neither splinters nor breaks has been produced in Germany. In tests made recently three adults used a long narrow sheet as a seesaw. #### Belgium Closing Four Prisons

Crime Seems To Have Fallen Off

Since War

Crime has fallen off to such an extent in Belgium since the armistice that four of the thirty-one prisons are to be closed. Prison officials attribute this state of affairs to the leniency of the courts and the operation of the first-offenders act. They say also that minors who formerly went to prison now go to the reformatory, which is now not listed as a prison.

Western Problems

Edmonton Editor Addresses Canadian Club At Ottawa

Suggestions for the solution of some of the problems with which western Canada is now grappling were placed before the Canadian Club at Ottawa by J. M. Irle, of Edmonton.

Canada should co-operate to the full in the London wheat agreement, Mr. Irle urged. Since this country had been the chief sinner in expanding its wheat acreage, it should feel thankful that the reduction demanded was not greater.

Diversified farming, with concentration on premium select hogs for that market in the United Kingdom which was guaranteed to Canadian producers up to 2,500,000 hundredweight per annum, was advocated. Mr. Irle also deplored that the indiscriminate and scattered settlement of the west prairies would have resulted in establishing families on unproductive and untenanted lands! He urged a redistribution and general thickening of settlement.

Currency Of Albania Is Very Cosmopolitan

Smallest Nation In Balkans Uses Gold Of Other Nations

The tiny kingdom of Albania, smallest in the Balkans, is the only country in that region which still pays its officials in gold, and where one may obtain gold in exchange for paper.

A general grasp of incredulity was noticeable in Sofia the other day, when the Albanian Bishop Vlasiq, representing his nation at the international conference for the union of International Friendship through the church, calmly pulled a fat purse from under his cassock and paid his hotel and other expenses in hard yellow coin.

Hil Grace explained that Albania, having no national currency of its own, is obliged to pay its officials on the basis of the gold franc. But since the gold franc is rare today, English sovereigns, Turkish coins, Italian lire, and even United States $5 and $10 gold pieces are employed in addition to the old "Napoleons" or "Louis."

Until the United States went off the gold standard, its paper dollar was to be regarded as the most solid currency circulating in the Balkans, and was employed to replace gold as a medium of exchange. Since its drop, however, the Albanians and others have gone back to the precious metal itself.

In all other Balkan countries the governments have confiscated all gold, replacing it by depreciable local paper currency. Heavy penalties are imposed on those found trafficking in gold, or taking foreign exchange out beyond the borders.

Germany claims to have the fastest railroad service in the world.

During experiments conducted by the German federal railroad company with another motor-driven train, speeds up to 84 miles an hour have been attained.

Say Russia May Join Wheat Pact To Boost Prices

London, Eng.—The chances of Soviet Russia joining an international pact to boost the price of wheat were viewed optimistically by delegates here on the eve of the first meeting of the world wheat advisory committee.

It was learned authoritatively that the subject of wheat was brought up in the conversations between Maxim Litvinoff and President Roosevelt in Washington last week. This fact is believed likely to exert a beneficial influence here.

The United States delegate to the parley, which will be presided over by United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham, left Washington before the conversations on Soviet recognition, but they were expecting fresh information from America.

The United States delegation pointed out that wheat could have only been a minor subject in Washington; however, inasmuch as Canada, Argentina and Australia are fully as much involved as the United States.

General trade reports indicate the Soviet crop is not as good as it was expected to be two months ago. It was stated in the American quarters here. For this reason Russia is expected to be more willing to agree to compromise.

One of the important matters to be decided by the commission is the scope of activity to be permitted the permanent wheat secretariat here. This decision presents a delicate diplomatic problem because it involves getting accurate and complete data from all countries so that the commission can act promptly and intelligently.

The belief that international wheat export quotas set by leading producers last summer are definitely fixed and will undergo no change at this week's meetings was held in United States delegation quarters.

In their review of market and crop developments since their meeting two months ago, members of the committee will consider changes in crop prospects in the southern hemisphere. Russia's continued refusal to enter the pact because of an insufficient allotment, and Premier Mussolini's recent decree banning wheat imports and providing that millers use only Italian domestic supplies.

These changes in the situation were seen as complications in the problems of holding down exports and thereby maintaining a certain price level for the grain.

Andrew Cairns of Canada, formerly of Winnipeg, secretary of the wheat commission, returned to his London headquarters after a tour of the continent where he discussed ways of aiding the wheat market with European officials.

It was expected the committee will be summoned to meet here regularly every two months.

May Appoint Commission

Clearing Up Of Natural Resources Question Deemed

Ottawa, Ont.—The cabinet is considering the advisability of appointing one or two commissions to clear up the natural resources question between the Dominion and Saskatchewan and Alberta. It is learned that the advisability of dealing with this question was discussed at length and that the consensus of opinion among ministers was for early action.

One point to be decided is if a single commission could deal with the claims of both provinces or if separate commissions should be appointed. It is felt, here, that the work would be facilitated and danger of later disputes minimized if one man acted as chairman in both inquiries. Moreover, it is altogether likely that the government will nominate the same commissioner and the same counsel to look after the Dominion's interests. Each province, however, would be entitled to separate representation.

Radio Commission Is Starting New Service

Canadians May Now Send Messages To Friends In Far North

Ottawa, Ont.—For the purpose of affording Canadians a means of sending messages to their relatives and friends in the far north, a service is to be inaugurated by the Canadian Radio Commission commencing Saturday, December 2.

Every Saturday evening from December 2 on, the commission will transmit personal messages for Canadians to the various posts in Labrador, northern Canada and the Arctic Archipelago. The messages will be transmitted from the commission's stations at Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

The service will be inaugurated on Saturday, December 2, with messages from the heads of various government departments to their officials in the far north.

Will Visit Canada

Lord Baden-Powell, Head Of Boy Scout Movement To Tour Dominion

Ottawa, Ont.—Announcement of a visit to Canada in September and October, 1934, by Lord Baden-Powell, world head of the Boy Scout Movement, was made by His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, Chief Scout for Canada, at the semi-annual meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association. Lord Baden-Powell will be accompanied by Lady Baden-Powell, world chief Girl Guide. The two leaders will meet Scouting and Guiding girls and review Boy Scouts and Girl Guides at various points across the Dominion. At the conclusion of the tour they will sail from Vancouver for Australia.

The great aeroplane's capacity was designed to carry 128 persons, including its crew. It was designed with sleeping accommodations for 64 persons. It was commissioned only last week.

Likely To Be Ignored

No Comment Made On Outburst By British Labor Member

London, Eng.—Apparently nothing more will be heard of the occurrence in the House of Lords as parliament opened when John McGovern, fiery labor left-winger, burst into front of the Queen and King and was assembled by the assembly of peers with a derision of the peers and peers as "parasites" living on the wealth created by the people "while the people starve."

The House of Commons adjourned on the address in reply to the speech from the throne without any reference to the incident being heard in the House.

British Labor Member Makes Statement In House Of Commons

London, Eng.—It is atrocious that Canada should prevent Britain from entering into a new trade agreement with Russia," declared J. Batesy, Labor member for Spennymoor, during debate in the House of Commons on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Batesy argued the long delay in concluding the negotiations for a new pact with Russia was because of Canadian protests against the import of Russian timber to Britain, which Canada contend is against the spirit of the Ottawa trade agreement.

A PICTURESQUE SOCIETY WEDDING IN INDIA

One of the most picturesque weddings to take place in India was formulated at the Church of the Redemption, New Delhi, when Major Richard Travers Lawrence, M.C., married Miss Elizabeth Margaret Addison. The bridegroom, a former A.D.C. to the Viceroy of India, is the private secretary to His Excellency the Governor of the Punjab, while his bride is the daughter of Major-General G. H. Addison, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and Mrs. Addison. Our picture shows the happy bride and groom leaving after the ceremony, which was attended by the Viceroy of India and the Countess of Willingdon.

RE-ELECTED GOVERNOR

The re-election of Montagu Norman as head of the Bank of England has been recommended by the board of the bank. This means Mr. Norman will be re-elected automatically when his present term expires on March 14.

Score Highest Honors

Young Judge From West Win At Royal Winter Fair

Toronto, Ont.—Manitoba's representatives scored highest honors in two of the six projects of judging contests staged by the Canadian council on boys' and girls' club work at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Two girls and 50 boys composed 28 teams from the Dominion's nine provinces. Their trips to Toronto came after victories in their home district and provincial elimination contests.

Two young women from Manitoba stood first in the poultry project. Boys from Renfrew County, Ont., took honors in grains, while Saskatchewan boys scored in the swine class. Nova Scotia in potatoes and Manitoba secured its second win in beef cattle.

The winners:

Best cattle—W. K. Brigham and Charles E. Good, Souris Beef Cattle Club, Man.

Swine—S. D. Wotton and Phillip D. Hunt, Fairmeade Swine Club, Sask.

Poultry—Mary Bottrell and Kathleen Phillips, Ochre River Poultry Club, Man.

Financial Assistance For Saskatchewan Government Considered At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—Financial assistance to the Saskatchewan government was considered by the Dominion cabinet and action taken, but no details could be secured. The prairie province will have as difficult a problem this winter as it faced last year, because of the drought and grasshopper plague which caused an almost complete crop failure.

Representations were made to the Dominion Government some days ago seeking assistance along the same lines as last winter.

It is understood the government took action Thursday to advance a portion of the money the province will need to care for the farmers in the stricken areas, and that further relief will be granted from time to time.

Two officials of the government recently concluded a tour of Saskatchewan crop-failure areas and made a report which indicated that the relief costs in that province would be as heavy this winter as last.

United Kingdom Sees Activity In Industry

Increase In Railway Traffic And Other Improvement Noted

London, Eng.—From several districts have come indications of the United Kingdom's steady advance in greater industrial activity.

All four of Britain's great railway groups issued traffic figures showing considerable gains over those for the corresponding week last year. A "buy British" train will start early in the new year in a tour covering the whole southern district and part of the northern district of England, calling at 60 important commercial centers.

Savings banks reported greater business and revenue from annual taxation was said to have risen.

A great steel firm began immediately to supply the British Isles with 30 miles of steel pipe for Jerusalem which, from the days of King Herod, has depended for its water supply on wells and springs. Another firm has received a contract worth more than $1,000,000 to equip telephone exchanges in Lithuania.

Fast Driving

Motorists From Vancouver To East Claim They Beat Train

Barrie, Ont.—Driving day and night on their trip from Vancouver to the youthful Barrie motorists claim they made faster time than the fast transcontinental trains.

Yesterday Vernon R. Taylor and Douglas Campbell arrived here Tuesday night and said they covered the 3,205 miles in 60 elapsed time of 108 hours and 71 hours actual driving time. A letter they mailed in Vancouver when they arrived in Barrie was never delivered in Barrie when they were there.

Hamilton, Bermuda—Captain J. A. Millison and his wife, the famous trans-ocean flying pair, sailed Nov. 22 from New York en route to England in order to complete arrangements for another attempt to beat the long distance flight record.

To Impose Exchange Dumping Duty On Imports From U. S.

Ottawa, Ont.—Action to impose an exchange dumping duty on imports from the United States "of a class or kind made in Canada" was taken by the Dominion government.

The government declared the United States dollar to possess a value of 100 cents Canadian currency for duty purposes. The effect of this is that the difference between the current rate of exchange and par will be collectable as an exchange dumping duty on imports from the United States of a class or kind made in Canada.

Since the United States dollar began to depreciate in value, the government has been watching the situation closely. At the present time the

New York.—On the eve of his embarkation for Moscow, Maxim Litvinoff declared the recognition of Russia by the United States will "weigh the scales in favor of peace."

Addressing a banquet of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce for Foreign Affairs warned that "preparations for a new war, or rather for new wars, are in full swing," and that "...the growing generation is being trained in the idea of glorification of war."

Standing beneath the stars and stripes and the red flag of Russia with a golden hammer and sickle—the man who helped to make the communist nation was surrounded by such prominent New Yorkers as John W. Davis, Kermit Roosevelt, Mrs. Ogden Reid and S. Parker Gilbert of the Morgan banking house.

The night was one of many dramatic moments.

At the conclusion of the American national anthem, many of the formally attired guests started to sit down. The organ halted them. The gilded ballroom of the swanky Waldorf-Astoria was filled with the strain of that hymn of Socialists and Communists—the "Internationale" anthem of the Soviet Union.

"Not only has the race for armaments been renewed and intensified," said Litvinoff, "but, what may be far more serious, in certain cases open propaganda of militaristic ideas is being carried on, the growing generation is being trained in the idea of the glorification for war..."

"Is it then surprising when such mood exists in certain countries that the disarmament conference is breathless?" It may go even farther, and assert that the Geneva conference is a corpse which no effort can bring back to life."

"The failure of the London conference, the continuing curtailment of international trade and shrinkage of markets, the tens of millions of unemployed, the revaluation of values which the crisis has forced in a very literal sense, does not permit any ray of hope for a change for the better in the world economic situation.

"Against this gloomy background it is impossible, in my opinion, not to discern in all that is going in my country a ray of light."

"It cannot be denied, for example, that the Soviet Union, which was threatened with the fate of being transformed into an agrarian colonial or semi-colonial country has grown in 16 years into a powerful industrial country, using technical methods and machinery the most modern in the world."

He pointed out that Russia enjoys the lowest foreign indebtedness in the world.

Western Provinces Benefit

Saskatchewan, Alberta, And B.C. Share Manitoba Coal Contracts

Winnipeg, Man.—Coal mines in Saskatchewan, Alberta, and the Crow's Nest Pass section of British Columbia will benefit through the award of contracts by the Manitoba government for 16,000 tons of coal.

Eleven companies received a share of the contracts—the contracts stipulate the coal to be delivered, the points include McGillivray Creek and Michel, in British Columbia; Bellevue, Alberta, coal and camrose, Alberta, briquettes, and Saskatchewan stone coal.

United States dollar is at a discount of approximately 2½ to 3 per cent. in terms of Canadian currency. This margin, which offsets the protection afforded to Canadian manufacturers by the tariff to the extent of the difference between the relative currencies, was evidently regarded by the government as sufficient to warrant action. An order-in-council fixing the value of the U.S. dollar for duty purposes was consequently put through.

Individually, the government of the United Kingdom contemplates measures to meet the situation as it affects that country. At present there is a six per cent. discount as between the United States dollar and sterling.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The bright weather experienced during November has acted as a tonic. It is not the weather which those engaged in the coal industry welcome as kindly as the farmers on the wide prairie spaces, yet it has many advantages. Not for years has so little frost been experienced as at this particular time. But as a rule the winter's coal bill works out on the same average basis, no matter if small spells are experienced during the winter season.

The cities of Winnipeg, Edmonton and Calgary returned to office their mayors by large majorities, particularly Calgary, where Andy Davison received the largest vote and the largest majority on record in the city. Despite disturbing influences fostered among the unemployed and others by ignorant and fatigued on the misfortunes of colored men who instead of offering constructive policies try to further depress the masses in whose behalf they profess to care on their campaign, the results indicate that after all the great majority are convinced by reason and honest efforts to ameliorate distress, that 'tis better not to fly to evils they know not than to trust the firebrands and revolutionaries.

Blairmore moderates still have their troubles. With a council controlled by "Red," backing a free advertising sheet which exists on support of merchants in Pass towns, and threats of boycotts against those who have the "guys" to withstand their coercive methods, there is still quite a lot of unrest.

Sitting on the fence is partly responsible. Those who try to play friends to both sides in a controversy eventually are caught between the two with disastrous results. That's the kind of "diplomacy" which DOES NOT pay.

Another demonstration of the crook and the kidnapper being a coward is the report of the Lynchings of two of this detestable type in San Jose, California, jail. Though mob law is to be deplored, yet one can deny theseowards met the fate they deserved. Summary justice meted out by an enraged mob will doubtless have a deterring effect on kidnappers and gangsters throughout the United States.

Students of "Better Business Methods" long since recognized that competitive, murderous, cut-throat prices contribute principally to low-wage scales and poverty. Of what use are working people to manufacturers if they have just enough money to buy only bread and butter? Yet competitive business has forced many into his condition. Selfishness, the desire to make money, the speculation instead of honest toil or mental exercise in honorable endeavor, has contributed towards the evils under which we suffer. No deal will cure evils inherent in man. Legislation may compel fair wages and abolish sweatshop labor, as NRA is trying to do in the United States, but only by the will of man himself will the real cure come.

The great masses of purchasers who hunt for bargains involuntarily encourage production of goods by under paid half-starved workers. The really progressive business men and manufacturers are those who devote their talents towards selling goods at prices which will enable fair wages to be paid to those who produce them—the workers!

Considerable improvement has been made to the grounds around the fire hall and town offices. Now that the grounds have been so attractively improved, the shack-like appearance of the building cries aloud for improvement. Useful employment has been provided for those who needed it, and still more work can be found by improving town property. For too long the town has wallowed in a rut, with shacks blowing around, horses and cattle, or their owners, thumbing their noses at all attempts to keep the town looking decent, and people in some instances using the street as a dumping place for refuse. Not very nice to publicize these blots on the town, but it appears the only forceful way in which to focus public attention on the need for remedies of those evils which are a constant source of annoyance.

Some increase in merchandise coming in by C.P.R. freight is reported for last week-end. The wise merchant realizes that business, like charity, must begin at home, especially when it comes to retaining what coal business may still be held by the railroads. More coal for railroads, more work for Coleman miners, and more business for Coleman merchants. Don't help to kill the goose that lays the eggs, even though others may be doing their best to do so.

On Monday evening the writer journeyed to Blairmore, there to enjoy the hospitality of the Masonic Fraternity of Rocky Mountain Lodge. The final dinner known as the "fourth," was a real north-west affair, for which the uncles or uncles of the kitchen headed by Uncle Gray and his able lieutenants, Riddell McLeod, were deserving of a special award on the program at the festive board. When men can produce turkey, hot potatoes, peas, pickles, pies and fruit cake in abundance, with not a woman in sight, to us it seemed nothing short of a miracle.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The editor is not responsible for opinions expressed in letters to the Press, and reserves the right to reject any communication submitted. Publication must not be taken as an endorsement of opinion or policies.—H.T.H.

Editor Coleman Journal:
Regarding your editorial of a recent issue drawing the attention of your readers to the number of children playing and loitering upon the streets at night, allow me to most emphatically endorse the stand which you have taken. Such a state of affairs comes very close to being a disgrace to the parents who do not give their children the care they should have and to the authorities who permit such laxity in their government of the town. The health, morals and mental development of these youngsters would be far better served and the problems of their teachers would be greatly simplified if these children were at home in bed instead of roaming the streets.

Another matter which might well be improved upon is the number of stray horses and cattle turned loose to pasture on the streets of the town. Gardens are ruined, trees and shrubs broken down, flowers and lawns ruined, fences and gates broken, and yet the stock continues on its uninterrupted way. Certainly it is not possible to keep all these animals out all the time but to make the town a cow pasture whenever their owners desire is going just a little too far. Why does Coleman have to endure this? Other towns have a pound for stray animals and a pound keeper to gather up any cattle or horses found at large within the town limits. Why is it not possible for Coleman to do this.

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By EDNA ROBIN WEBSTER
Author of "Joretta," "Lipstick Girl" Etc.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful art student, and Peter Anson, a strong, jolly, good-natured man, are secretly deciding to live apart until the time Peter can establish himself. Camilla, the adopted daughter of wealthy parents, is not to inherit the family fortune at her age. She is presenting herself to him, hoping to get a job to enable her to support herself. She has been making the rounds of agencies.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIX.

Returning home, Camilla was surprised to discover how tired she was with the day's efforts. Study and classes at school had been peremptory, but there was a vast difference between preparation for work and work itself, or even obtaining it, she already had discovered. While she dressed for dinner, she reviewed in her mind some of the truths which had made themselves evident to her that day. She always had supposed that if you were willing to work, there was a place for you. It was obvious that not only was that supposition wrong, but that not even if you were capable of doing the work you chose, you were given the opportunity.

Gazing around at the furnishings of the big luxurious rooms that had sheltered her for so long, and making rapid calculations with the values of her possessions, she was astounded at the time she estimated it would require her to earn the money they represented.

Even if she were given the opportunity to work for pay, how long would it take her to earn what the clothes she was putting on had cost her? Her frock was an imported model that had cost three hundred dollars, her shoes, twenty-five; her stockings and lingerie another seventy-five. Her wardrobe and dressing table drawers were filled with such costly garments.

Of course, she knew that when she earned her own living, she would no longer patronize exclusive shops and wear hand embroidered lingerie. But she wondered how many of the women who wore such garments could earn the money for even very poor substitutes, if they were obliged to. With sudden panic, she wondered if she could.

Since before the triple cheval glass of her dressing table, Camilla did not see her glowing beauty. She was gazing into the vast and chaotic abyss that gaped suddenly at her feet—that chasm of life into which she was about to leap. Approaching it, she had been so confident and secure, standing now at the brink and gazing into its abysmal depths, she drew back with horror. Then suddenly, there appeared before her

W. N. II. 2022

Peter's dead and earnest face, the grave eyes speaking with that smile she loved, and she reached out and clamped his hand, no longer afraid. She was ready to leap into life—with Peter.

Peter was modeling with intense interest, striving for the exact before the idea should become lost in the ethereal confusion of escape. His aspirations that their original idea had failed to carry quickly enough. His hands were gray with plastic clay and his mini was projected into the realm of creative fancy. A knock on the door, suddenly interrupted the summer morning stillness and drew him back to reality.

His forehead wrinkled with annoyance, for he had no wish to be disturbed. Then the reminder that it might be Camilla who had come to him, made him call quickly, "Come in." He always wanted to see Camilla, no matter how disturbed she might be.

There was an instant's hesitation, then the knob turned and the door opened to disclose a strange girl. A very beautiful stranger, she was, so beautiful that Peter stared at her stupidly for a moment. The girl just smiled friendly and said, "May I come in?"

"That is what I told you to do," he said. "Find a chair, please. As you see, I am—er—busy." Somehow, he felt defensive toward her at once, and his voice reflected his attitude.

"Thanks," she said, crossing the room with casual, lissom movements and sinking into one of the armchairs which graced the room. "You are Peter Anson, aren't you?" she inquired, raising her very blue eyes which were deeply shadowed with long, dark lashes. Their contrast with the pale gold of her hair was startling and effective.

"I can't deny it," Peter replied.

"Miss Todd, how do you do?" Peter inclined his head slightly. "What may I do for you?"

"Give me some work," she came to the point quickly. "I'm a model, and desperate for work." She took a cigarette from her purse and fired it with a lighter from the table beside her.

Peter daubed tentatively at the clay figure on the turn stand. "I'm afraid you have come to the wrong place for that."

"You have a model now?"

"No."

"Well, you're a sculptor, aren't you? Two and two make four."

"Exactly. And five and five make that's two days for a model. I can't afford one."

"And where do you expect to get without one?"

"I manage. I did that without one."

He indicated the group in the window above which he had made for Camilla. Miss Todd glanced at it casually. "Not bad. But neither will that kind of stuff get you anywhere."

"You mean nude?"

"Sure. Symbolic stuff. That's what brings in the dough that makes the cake. And it's my line. Want to see my figure?"

"I noticed it when you walked across the room," dimly.

She laughed shortly. "You would, of course. Well, how about using it for inspiration. Big Boy? Gee, you're quite an inspiration yourself."

"No doubt you could be that," he smiled for the first time, "but I don't happen to be doing anything that needs it."

"Now is as good a time to begin as any. What about the National exhibit? Heard you were going to enter?"

"I planned to."

"With what—that?" she nodded toward the immigrant group.

"Oh, no—that is just a personal possession."

"Well, you wouldn't ever get a look-in with that," she shrugged.

"What then?"

"Why, I've had several bunches, but none of them suited me, quite, and I'm not sure now that I want to enter the exhibit."

"Afraid you might lose the scholarship?"

"More afraid I might win, if you will pardon my conceit."

She stared at him in surprise.

"Well, are you crazy, or am I cuckoo?"

"Neither. I hope. It just happens that affairs have developed recently to change my plans."

She watched him with a calculating expression for a moment. "A girl friend?"

"You aren't by any chance, a detective?" he inquired.

"If I were," she laughed, "I might not be out of work."

"I don't know," Peter observed.

The depression has hit everything."

"Don't I know it? Models in particular say, listen, Big Boy, when there's work enough to go half way around, this baby has more than she can do."

"I don't doubt it."

Largest Swimming Pool

Building Planned For Wembley Will Cover Over Two Acres

Details of the proposed Empire swimming pool at Wembley have been outlined and it is stated that the building will be nearly half as large again as Albert Hall. It will be 420 feet long and 240 feet in width, and will cover an area of more than two acres.

Its roof span will be 420 feet—80 feet wider than the Main Hall at Olympia. The arena will be 300 feet by 88 feet, and the pool 180 feet wide by 30 feet deep, with a maximum depth of 16 feet. The level of the arena to the apex of the roof will be approximately 90 feet.

Wembley Stadium, Ltd., is providing the whole of the money, estimated at $750,000, for this new enterprise.

It is intended to open the pool for the aquatic events of the British Empire Games in August next year.

There will be accommodation for more than 8,000 spectators, each of whom will have an upholstered tip-up seat. Wave-making machinery, which will cause the water to break on sloping "beaches" at either side of the pool, and under-water illumination, will aid in the lure to the bathers, who will also have a dance floor and fully licensed buffets provided for them.

Erect Sub-Arctic Mission

Work Of Two Priests At Repulse Bay

Nearing Completion

Fishing touches are being given to a new mission of the Roman Catholic Church at Repulse Bay, lonely northern outpost, high up in the barren lands. Its construction is the work of Father Armande Chabeaut and Rev. Father Pierre Henry.

Lumber and material for the building were taken in this summer from Churchill, 800 miles to the south. The mission will be a welcome addition to this small settlement situated at the southern tip of Melville Island.

Priests will minister principally to fur traders and nomadic bands of Eskimos who make frequent visits.

She nodded, her head lowered, and when she looked up again the blue eyes glistened with tears, like dew on blue violets. But she smiled wanly.

"I walked out here all the way from Sevenoaks, so I could use my last dime for a sandwich to have strength for work."

"But what made you think I would buy?"

"I heard you were going to enter the Height of Land. It was crossed and recrossed during the thrilling hunt for the lost MacAlpine party in 1929, and has been found by explorers since 1919. Visitors from the 'outside' are not numerous.

UPLAND PICTURE

That summer day the air was amber wine,
Each rocky hill stood drenched in ardent heat;

I, straining, saw a drowsy snake untwining.

Its mottled coil and slither past my feet.

Half hoard and half surmised, an elated sombre,

Of sheep bells tinkled all the afternoon.

And, while the sun went blazing on his round,

From the heavens to earth was the sun, a glorious orb.

There was so little breeze it scarcely stirred.

Grotesque mosquitoes dust-covered, feather grace;

They came in breath of flower, no song of bird.

To break the strange enchantment of that place.

Far, far below the tawny river lay

A land like all the land, that summer day.

Joffre's Body Taken Home

The body of Marshal Joffre, who died January 13, 1931, has been taken from the invalids at Paris, to his old home in Louveciennes for burial, as he wished, under his own chestnut trees.

General Gouraud, one-armed war hero, and other soldier friends assisted the casket to the bier, where the widow, a daughter and the servants joined the funeral party and attended a religious ceremony.

The good-looking summer boarder was enraptured about farm life.

"Oh, I'd just love to be a farmer," she purred, "and live with the blue sky overhead always."

"That would be all right," the farmer replied, "if the blue sky was the farmer's only overhead."

Pets As Nuisances

In Milwaukee fines ranging from five to twenty-five dollars are imposed on owners of dogs which howl at night and disturb neighbors, and that seems fair enough. No one has any business keeping a pet which becomes a nuisance to others.

After all, there are some advantages in being a monkey. Nobody tries to make one out of him.

MILLION DOLLAR BUILDING FOR DEFECTIVES OPENED IN ENGLAND

Sir E. Hilton Young, British Minister of Health, in opening a colony for mental defectives which was instituted by the Hertfordshire county council, at a cost of $1,250,000, said the people of the United Kingdom should not be content with the existence of mental deficiency to the degree that is the case in this country.

"For 'normal' reason," he continued, "we shall press ahead and search out every possible means of social and scientific work by which we can reduce mental deficiency." He added, "I put in the forefront of the work of the state and the local authorities the prevention of this evil and the necessity of finding the means whereby it may be diminished."

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile

When you feel bad, depressed, over on the left, you're probably not letting the bile pass through your liver. Bile is the liver's way of getting rid of wastes. Digestion and elimination are being slowed up, and so is assimilation and absorption. More bowel movements like salts, oil, mineral salts, etc., are being passed through the system, so nothing goes for much.

Take Curity's Liver Bile. It is the best one. Curity's Liver Bile is safe, safe for babies. Curity's Liver Bile is safe, safe for name by name. Curity's Liver Bile is safe, safe for all ages.

Rough, coarse people best understand the rough treatment and attitude they show to others. The law of the jungle is best suited to them. An example of this was seen when an answer to a question at a political meeting -- not satisfying them, one of their number yelled "Liar," and when the National Anthem was sung showed their true colors by walking out.
